Demo Keys are designed for demonstration and technical support by Resellers and Distributors only. These Licenses may contain additional Permissions which are not in the default configuration of the corresponding RIP Product. Each Key has a 6 month expiration and must be verified and renewed at each expiration.

Evaluations Keys are fully functional product Keys with a 45 day expiration. These Keys do not have a watermark and are designed to be used in production for evaluation purposes before a full license is purchased. Keys cannot be extended beyond the initial 45 days.

Stock Package / Trial Keys are built like the full product with a watermark and no expiration. These Keys are designed to help test the functionality of the RIP software and are not meant to test in full production (see Evaluation Keys above).

No-Key Stock Packages are software sets which do not contain a USB Key. These packages cannot be activated with a full license. No-Key Stock Packages are intended to be used when a customer Upgrades or Converts their Current License from one Product or Version to another and needs the most recent set of Software to complete their installation. These can also be used for Software Replacements as needed.

Product Conversions to another RIP Product Line can only be done if the original License is on the Current Version and Channel Edition. Upgrades to the Current Version and Conversions from OEM Editions to Channel Editions are included in ONYX Advantage Service.
